Dear Friends of St. Barbara Monastery,

As this Newsletter goes to press, the Orthodox world is reeling with the news of the break in communion between the Russian Orthodox Church and the Patriarchate of Constantinople over the actions of the latter in Ukraine. Meanwhile, almost all the reports in the media regarding this crisis demonstrate gross misunderstanding of the important underlying issues.

The media would have us believe that the fundamental dispute has to do with human rights, freedom of conscience and democratic process—a dispute in which the Russian Orthodox Church is seen as the oppressor and a tool of the Russian government and the Ukrainian schismatic group the victim, while the Ecumenical Patriarchate is portrayed as the rescuer. (It would appear that the reporters and commentators have not had even a slight briefing regarding, for one thing, the canonical and hierarchical structure of the Orthodox Church!) Thus, the dispute is understood as political in nature and the Church as a mere human institution (whether the immediate reference is to the schismatic Ukrainian Church or the canonical one, the Russian Church or the Ecumenical Patriarchate.)

We Orthodox Christians, however, know—and know by experience—that the Church founded by Jesus Christ and preached by the Apostles is a divine-human institution embracing heaven and earth. Indeed, it is the Body of Christ. Moreover, it has had since the beginning a hierarchical and canonical structure, which is neither arbitrary nor incidental but of its very essence. Thus, in the end, what is at stake here—because it is being not only misunderstood but violated—is nothing less than Orthodox theology, in particular our Ecclesiology and our Tradition (note the capital “T”) regarding the nature of the Church.

We wish that more space were available in which to outline some useful historical information and to lend some perspective on the current situation. The effort to found a Ukrainian Orthodox Church in Ukraine separate from the Moscow Patriarchate a century ago was crushed by the Soviets. And its offspring in the Ukrainian immigration in the West only received canonical status—another long story—in the 1990’s, an event which surely has influenced the present day developments.

We also wish there were some way to inform the media—not to mention our government—what the issues really are and how this crisis presents a grave threat to the whole Orthodox Church.

In the midst of all the confusion—well knowing that, more than any other measures that might need to be implemented, hearts will have to change for any resolution to be achieved—our hierarchs have distributed two special petitions to be included at the Divine Liturgy. Here is the second of the two:

Again we pray that Thou wilt look down upon the Holy Orthodox Church with forbearance and mercy, preserving it from divisions and schisms, enmity and tribulation. That its unity never be weakened or shaken, but instead that Thy Thrice-Holy name may be glorified in it, let us all say, O Lord, hear us and have mercy.

VISIT OF THE MYRRH-STREAMING ICON

“SOFTENER OF EVIL HEARTS”

“Soften our evil hearts, O Theotokos, . . . for looking on thy holy icon we are filled with compunction by thy suffering and loving-kindness for us and we kiss thy wounds. . . .”

So began the Akathist to the Mother of God, Softener of Evil Hearts, when the icon visited St. Barbara Monastery on October 13th. The myrrh-streaming icon filled the chapel with a cleansing fragrance for the roughly sixty people in attendance. V. Rev. Lawrence Russell of Holy Annunciation Church in Santa Maria led the service, and the choir of monastics and visitors was directed by Serge Liberovsky, choir master at Holy Virgin Mary Cathedral in Los Angeles.

The icon itself is a simple paper print mounted on wood, by copious tears of the Theotokos. As it stood in the center of the chapel, her tears sparkled like tiny jewels on the inside of the icon’s glass covering.

The icon streams myrrh when great tragedies occur in the world, for example on the day of the fatal sinking of the Russian submarine “Kursk,” and again on 9/11, the day when the Twin Towers in New York City were destroyed. Likewise, it has shown the concern and sorrow of the Mother of God on the occasion of many occurrences around the world. As the days darken around us, it is a deep comfort to know that the Theotokos is sharing in our sorrows and is with us.

That we were granted a visit of the Mother of God through this icon both humbles us and gives us great joy.

We were gifted with a copy of the icon by Sergei Fomin, the guardian of the icon who travels with it around the world. This copy is currently available in our monastery chapel for veneration.
BLESSING OF THE BELLS

On Sunday, October 28th, at the Friends’ Gathering, we will bless the set of five bells cast especially for St. Barbara Monastery in Russia by the Pyatkov Bell Company and now duly mounted in the small belfry built near the chapel. Rev. Yousuf Rassam of St. Innocent Church in Tarzana has arranged to come and perform the blessing, at which the bells will be duly named and chrismated.
